International Accreditation Service, Inc. Fabrication Inspection Program

Clark County Department of Development Services is pleased to announce the approval of the International Accreditation Service (IAS) Inc., Fabrication Inspection Program as a means for structural steel fabrication facilities to meet Clark County requirements for listing as an approved fabricator. This conclusion is based on a comparison of the review and inspection processes used by both Development Services and IAS to determine the suitability of a facility. IAS is considered a Nationally Recognized Body as defined in the Building Administrative Code.

Clark County Department of Development Services – Building Division will accept an application from a structural steel fabrication facility based on accreditation through the International Accreditation Service Inc. Due to their accreditation, their facility will also have a special designation as a recognized fabrication facility as defined in the Building Administrative Code. This special designation allows for the fabrication facility to be listed with application fees waived.

Fabrication facilities will be required to stipulate to a few conditions for approval. The stipulations are addressed in a listing agreement issued by Development Services after verification of accreditation by IAS and acceptance of a formal application.

Clark County Department of Development Services looks forward to applications being accepted in this manner.
